

But I Thought You Said You Loved Me...

This case study is a reserve reading located on the library website.

Click on reserves (left column) > green box titled reserves > Electronic Reserves and Reserves Page. In the search box type COM 220 > the teal COM 220 link > read and accept the statement regarding use of electronic materials > choose the reading > then the next hyperlink > the reading will appear.

If you are working from home there may be a few more steps, don't wait till the last minute.

As you will discover this case study reading is slightly different. You have a brief situation and then you have a lesson on the Passion, Love, & Commitment. You need to read all of this to be prepared for your group discussion. Be prepared for a question(s) to be based on the lesson in the reading and not just work from class.

Terms from class discussions that may be incorporated include but are not limited to:

- ✓ Social needs (why we communicate)
- ✓ Transactional model
- ✓ Qualitative definition of interpersonal communication
- ✓ Relational messages
 - affinity
 - respect
- ✓ Metacommunication
- ✓ Communication competence
- ✓ Empathy
- ✓ Semantic Rules
- ✓ Connotative and Denotative meanings
- ✓ Pragmatic rules
- ✓ Gender and language
- ✓ Culture and language