

Math 161 Fall 2003

Instructor: Dr. Mark Lammers      lammersm@uncw.edu
221 Bear Hall 962-3249                      http://people.uncw.edu/lammersm/ (eventually)

Office Hours: 1-2 MF, 11-12 TR.

Text: Calculus: Early Transcendentals, fifth edition, James Stewart. First 6 chapters.

Attendance: Regular Attendance is required and may affect your grade.

Grading: 3 Tests	300 points
Final Exam	100 points*
Quizzes	200 points
Projects	100 points
Total	700 points

There will be no makeup tests or quizzes. Any work missed for what the instructor has deemed a valid excuse will be replaced by an average of other similar work.

* If the score of your final exam is higher than the score of any of your tests I will replace the lowest test score with an average of that score and your final. This only applies if you taken all the tests or have a valid excuse for missing one.

You will be allowed to drop at least two quizzes and some of the quizzes may be takehome. Any missed quiz will be one that you drop.

There will be three or four MAPLE projects/labs assigned during the semester. You will be allowed to work in groups of two on these projects and there will be some class time available for you to complete them.

Grading will be as follows:

	B+ $\geq$ 84%,	C+ $\geq$ 72%	D+ $\geq$ 60%,
A $\geq$ 92%	B $\geq$ 80%	C $\geq$ 68%	D $\geq$ 56%
A- $\geq$ 88%	B- $\geq$ 76%	C- $\geq$ 64%	D- $\geq$ 52% .

The instructor reserves the right to lower these percentages but will never raise them. (i.e. may lower B to 78% never raise it to 82%).

Tentative Test Dates: Test 1	Sept. 19
Test 2	Oct. 24
Test 3	Nov. 21
Final	December 6, 3:00-6:00 pm

Note the date of the final exam. I suggest you not book a flight home this day and ask me to give you a makeup. I will not.

Homework: The assigned homework will not be collected but the weekly quiz questions will come directly from the assignments or they will be very similar.

ADA: If you have special needs as addressed by the Americans with Disabilities Act and need any assistance please notify the instructor immediately.

Academic Dishonesty: Just say NO.
