

- I. Mass recognition (whites only) of elite changes
 - A. Perceived ideological differences between parties Figure 7-1, p. 142
 - B. Perceived cultural issue differences between parties Figure 7-2, p. 143
 - C. Cultural issues as the perceived most important problem Figure 7-3, p. 144

- II. Cultural issues and electoral behavior (whites only)
 - A. Issue preference on cultural issues and vote for Republican presidential candidates Figure 7-4, p. 146
 - 1. Legal access to abortion
 - 2. Feeling thermometer rating on gays and lesbians
 - 3. Government-sponsored prayer in public schools
 - 4. Role of women
 - B. Issue preference on cultural issues and vote for Republican U.S. House candidates Figure 7-5, p. 147
 - 1. Legal access to abortion
 - 2. Feeling thermometer rating on gays and lesbians
 - 3. Government-sponsored prayer in public schools
 - 4. Role of women
 - C. Issue preference on cultural issues and Republican Party identification Figure 7-6, p. 148
 - 1. Legal access to abortion
 - 2. Feeling thermometer rating on gays and lesbians
 - 3. Government-sponsored prayer in public schools
 - 4. Role of women

- III. Religion, cultural issues, and American electoral behavior
 - A. Religious traditions and political divisions in America (whites only) Figure 7-7, p. 152
 - 1. Mainline Protestant
 - 2. Evangelical Protestant
 - 3. Roman Catholic
 - 4. Secular
 - B. Cultural issues and a new religious cleavage
 - 1. Church attendance and Republican support Figure 7-8, p. 159
 - 2. Salience of religion and Republican support Figure 7-9, p. 160
 - 3. Biblical literalism and Republican support Figure 7-10, p. 161

- IV. Conclusion
 - A. Cultural divide and elites
 - B. Cultural divide and public