

Latin 201
Homework 5

I: Subjunctive uses

1. What are some of the words that typically introduce a result cause?

---

2. How is the negative expressed in a result clause (i.e. where the result was that something didn't happen):

---

II. Sentences: Translate the following sentences:

1. Lesbia deliciae meae cum passere ludit ne tristis sit.

---

2. tam carus est passer ut Lesbia omnes curas deponat.

---

3. tantus amor me movet ut versus scribam.

---

4. tam amor me movebat ut versus scriberem.

---

5. ita Lesbia passerem amabat ut semper in sinu eum teneret.

---

6. passer pippiabat ne Lesbia tristis esset.

---

7. passer ita pippiabat ut Lesbia non tristis esset.

---

III. Parallel sentences. Each of the following sentences has a purpose clause. Translate the sentence, (b) change the sentence so that it expresses a similar idea but shows the result rather than the purpose of an action, and (c) translate the new sentence. (Step 1: What would the “result clause” sentence mean? (Thinking in English is fine for this stage). Step 2: determine what “result” word would go into the first clause to make a result clause make sense. Step 3: Insert that word Step 4: revise the sentence to make sure everything agrees and makes sense.

Example: Theseus fortiter Minotaurum oppugnabat ut victor Athenas rediret. (a) Theseus fought the Minotaur bravely so that he could return to Athens as a victor. (b) Theseus tam fortiter Minotaurum oppugnabat ut victor Athenas rediret. (c) Theseus fought the Minotaur so bravely that he (Theseus) returned to Athens as a victor.
